HOW TO FIRE UP YOUR SCHOOL FUNDRAISING

- The biggest money earner at school fetes and carnivals will surprise you
- Top tips to get the most from your Fete
- These tips can be applied to other fundraising endeavours

The first ever National Fete Research Project has revealed what many organisers already - that fetes are critical to school income and community engagement. The project has also revealed what more can be done to increase their success.

Conducted by QUT's Australian Centre for Philanthropy and Nonprofit Studies, with support from the Fundraising Directory, the study involved nearly 500 school fete conveners from private, state and faith-based schools across Australia.

The average fete profit for a large school (more than 700 students) was approximately $26,000 and for a small school (fewer than 300 students) it was approximately $10,000, with the largest profit from a single fete a whopping $93,000.

QUT Researcher Marie Balczun said the study showed that schools should not rule out traditional fundraising activities, or be put off from running a fete due to the size of their school community.

"Fetes are often the major fundraiser for a school, with the average fete profit reported to be just under $18,000. While larger schools naturally had higher average profits, smaller schools actually did better on a per student basis, raising more than $70 per student, compared with $30 per student for larger schools," Ms Balczun said.

One suprising tidbit from the study was that the most profitable fete stall or activity was the humble barbeque or sausage sizzle, followed by amusement rides, with a cake stall coming in fifth

AMUSEMENT RIDES CAN'T BEAT THE HUMBLE SAUSAGE SIZZLE WHEN IT COMES TO FUNDRAISING DOLLARS

"It was interesting to see that while amusement rides were the most popular activity to include in a fete line up, they can't beat throwing a snag on the barbie, when it comes to the final fundraising tally. After a barbeque, rides come in as the second most profitable, followed by raffles, auctions and cake stalls," she said.

The report provides these key tips from fete organisers, to help improve the running of a fete and boost profits:

- 1. Start early a year out if possible, straight after the previous fete.
- Use online signup for volunteers this will help with recruitment.
- Prioritise safety have someone responsible for Occupational Health and Safety matters.
- Hire a portable ATM more cash means more sales.

Have a wet weather plan - especially for the rides.

QUT Associate Professor Wendy Scaife, director of The Australian Centre for Philanthropy and Nonprofit Studies, said there was also a key opportunity to involve more men in the running of fetes.

"Apart from security roles, females made up most of the volunteers," Professor Scaife said.

"In fact, more than three-quarters of volunteers are female and, when it comes to the organising committee, that number jumps to almost 90%," she said.

Research partner Mandy Weidmann from the Fundraising Directory said the research aimed to give fete organisers access to benchmarks and guidance that have not previously existed.

"For example, only 40% of state and private schools in the study received a handover report from the previous fete," Ms Weidmann said.

"Information sharing such as this could save time, and stress, and make fetes even more profitable," she said.

One area that remained contentious though, was the role of alcohol at school fetes.

"On average, alcohol was only available at 30 percent of fetes and attitudes remain mixed on the issue," Professor Scaife said.

"Some schools saw it as inappropriate, with a view that fetes without alcohol have a more family friendly atmosphere. Others reported it was popular and easy to keep as a 'kid-free' zone," she said.

BLACK DOG, BLUE BUTTERFLIES

An exhibition drawing attention to mental health is now open at the Pine Rivers Art Gallery.

The exhibition, Black Dog, Blue Butterflies, features the works of 24 artists from across the region and interstate that aim to breakdown stigmatisation of mental health by promoting dialogue around mental illness.

Strathpine artist Joanne Braddy will have 16 of her works on display alongside works created by 23 other artists.

Ms Braddy who recently took out the Brian Burke Award at the 2018 Moreton Bay Art Awards with her sculptural work, describes her paintings as impacting, moving and healing.

"My paintings are an expression of my inner world. Through my art I've found the courage to break the silence," Ms Braddy said.

"The works in this exhibition challenge the stereotypes of mental illness through their depictions of the broad range of emotions experienced."

Black Dog, Blue Butterflies, at the Pine Rivers Art Gallery, will run until November 10.

The gallery is located at Unit 7/199 Gympie Road, Strathpine. For more information on the exhibition visit www. moretonbay.qld.gov.au/pine-rivers-gallery/exhibitions or phone 3480 6941.

MORETON BAY PLASTIC STRAW BAN KICKS IN

Australia's third largest council, Moreton Bay Regional Council, has ditched the plastic straw.

After becoming the first council in South East Queensland to make the pledge to phase out single-use plastic straws, Economic Development and Tourism Spokesperson Councillor Peter Flannery said Moreton Bay had now removed plastic straws at counciloperated venues and events.

"It's a simple measure, which will hopefully make a huge difference on the overall amount of non-biodegradable plastics ending up in landfill or in our waterways," Cr Flannery said.

Patrons will no longer be given single-use plastic straws at facilities like the Morayfield Sport and Events Centre or Redcliffe Cultural Centre.

"Additionally, the region's major events provider [Moreton Bay Region Industry and Tourism] will require market and food vendors to comply with the region's new direction on single-use plastic straws beginning with the next major event, Moreton Kids Festival in October.

"Our name is a nod to one of the country's most important coastal resources: Moreton Bay, and we have a responsibility to make sure rubbish like singleuse straws doesn't end up harming local marine life.

Cr Flannery said council would now encourage local sporting and community groups to join the cause, and we hope the move would also inspire local businesses to follow suit.

"Already a number of businesses and cafes in Moreton Bay are taking up the push for greater sustainability through re-usable cups and biodegradable cutlery, and I hope this move encourages them to also ditch the single-use plastic straw from their menus."

he average Australian metropolitan household is now spending $17,912 on transport costs per year, an increase of $306 from the previous quarter. But locals are paying nearly $20k a year for transport

Brisbane residents fork out on average $19,745 a year to travel around the River City, which makes it one of the most expensive places in the country to commute.

According to the Australian Automobile Association's (AAA) latest Transport Affordability Index, the cost to own and run a car or catch public transport increased by $184 per annum in the June quarter this year alone, the second highest increase in Australia behind Sydney.

RACQ's Head of Public Policy Rebecca Michael said Brisbane was the most expensive city for transport when average income was measured.

"Residents are spending more than 16 percent of their incomes on getting around Brisbane. Registration, licensing, taxes and tolls are hitting the hip pocket hard -and it's unacceptable," Dr Michael said.

The AAA said The Federal Government's largest source of transport-related revenue is fuel excise and that a lot of us don't even realise we're being taxed 40.9 cents on every litre at the pump. Perversely, this revenue sometimes doesn't even make to road safety or transport infrastructure funding. Unlike many other countries, the government can allocate these funds to any area of expenditure.

"If the State Government was serious about driving down the cost of living it would start by freezing rego costs for three years."

Dr Michael blamed rising fuel prices for a significant proportion of the hike, saying they accounted for an extra $5.41 being added to the weekly household budget.

"These kinds of increases put added pressure on families, which is why we look forward to the start of the real time fuel price monitoring trial in December," she said.

"Price monitoring alone won't bring the cost of fuel down - but people power will. We're urging drivers to pay attention to advice regarding when to fill up, use fuel price apps or websites to find the cheapest fuel, and reward those retailers charging fair prices with your business.

"Competition between fuel stations is the best way to drive down prices and secure the cheapest deal for motorists."

AAA is the peak organisation for Australia's motoring clubs including RACQ.

Hello Leonie,

My husband and I are about to have our first child. He is 36 and I am 28. We have decided that I will stay at home with the baby until at least the preschool stage. We are both happy with this and we can afford it because my husband is a senior teacher and we have a small mortgage that we know we can manage.

Our problem is that we are being hit with a lot of flack from our families about our decision for me to stay at home with the baby. My parents are accusing my husband of robbing me of my career and say that they will look after the baby while I work.

My mother has said that she took on a part time job so I could attend Uni and that she feels it was all a waste of her time and money. His mother has said on at least two occasions that she feels that I should stay at work and pull my weight because it's unfair for her son to carry me and the baby.

We have stopped going over to our parent's houses as often as we used to because we can't stand the negativity. This is supposed to be a happy time and we feel like we have just told everyone that we have a terminal disease. We are over the moon because we have been trying to get pregnant for years. What do you think we should do?

Rachelle/Rothwell

Hello Rachelle,

When you marry, ideally, you form a united identity that is separate from your parents and your family of origin. This new identity should make its own decisions and should be free of parental interference. I would like to point out that interference and support are two very different things. Whilst it's nice that your parents are concerned with your welfare and your career, they should respect your marital decisions unless there is an obvious abuse occurring where they would naturally seek to rescue their child.

You have not given much information about your extended family dynamics. I would be interested to know if there is a possibility that your parents are offering to care for the baby because they want the baby to be more connected to them rather than the fraternal Grandparents. Did your mother work? Was she resentful of this? On the flip side, do you think that your mother in-law had no choice other than to work when she had her babies, and could it be that she is resentful of the fact that you do have a choice? All may not be as it seems.

Perhaps you could send your respective parents an email detailing that you feel less than supported and are very disappointed that they are not sharing your happiness in starting the family that you both have longed for and for criticising your parenting style. If your parents are truly worried about you losing your career, perhaps you could allay some of their fears by keeping your teaching registration current and letting them know that although you may not be working, you will be engaging in professional development and keeping your skills as current as your contemporaries. Perhaps you could also mention that you do appreciate the sacrifices that your parents made to send you to Uni but you had no idea there would be conditions put on this support and don't wish to burden them further with child care responsibilities.

To my mind, the bottom line is that this is your choice to make and this needs to be respected. If it can't be respected and the interference continues, I would suggest that you stay firm and tell them that this issue is not up for discussion. Given time they may have no choice but to accept that you will be managing your family as you see fit but would still like to have their support and love. There are times in life when we shore up against interlopers and strengthen our relationship boundaries, even with the people we love.

THE SANDGATE SUNSET RUN

This year be supporting the Indigenous Marathon Foundation

One of Brisbane's most unique fun runs and community events is back for a fifth consecutive year, and has announced its charity recipient.

The event, which will be held on 13th October, is a highlight on the area's social calendar, featuring 5 runs for all age groups, World Food Markets, free entertainment, a kids' disco and more.

It is run by a group of local volunteers, and always supports a local charity.

The Indigenous Marathon Foundation is a health promotion charity established in 2013 by world marathon champion Robert de Castella.

The Indigenous Marathon Project, the flagship program of IMF, annually selects a squad of 12 young Indigenous Australians, aged 18-30, to train for the world's most iconic running event, the New York City Marathon.

Another program run by IMF is Deadly Runners – a free, local, grass-roots group for people starting out on their running/walking journey.

Event Director Dean Gibson says it's a perfect fit for the Sandgate Sunset Run.

"We recently seen a Deadly Runners group start up in Sandgate, and the ripple effects are already evident," he said.

"We share the same community spirit and values, and we just love the positive difference that the Indigenous Marathon Foundation is making in communities right around the country, as well as right here in Sandgate."

This year's Sandgate Sunset Run will feature the 2-hour Open Relay, a 40-minute Social Relay, a Junior Relay for ages 10-15 as well as a Kids' Dash for those aged 9 and under, attracting more than 700 runners and around 2000 spectators.

For the 5th birthday celebrations, there's also a brand new event - the Hot Lap - which will see participants run one fast lap around the roundabout for a cash prize.

All events are run around the Sandgate Roundabout, which is shut down to cars for the evening, creating a fun, encouraging festival atmosphere in the heart of Sandgate.

Registrations are now open at www. sandgatesunsetrun.com.au. For more information on the work of the Indigenous Marathon Foundation, head to www.imf.og.au.

HEALTHY AGEING EXPO AT BRIGHTON

N orth Brisbane's biggest and best Healthy Ageing Expo is supporting people to live and age well at Brighton during Senior's Week

Community and Oral Health Executive Director Tami Photinos said the third annual Brighton Healthy Ageing Expo was expected to draw in thousands of people of all ages and backgrounds from across the Moreton Bay and North Brisbane

"We are encouraging as many people as possible to take full advantage of the activities on offer, from Tai Chi to a Heart Foundation walking group, to hearing and blood pressure checks and gardening workshops, to fun social games and activities," Ms Photinos said.

"The Expo is all about helping people live the best life they can as they grow older. By bringing the community and health service providers together in one place, we hope we are inspiring people to make good choices about their own health."

As part of the Expo, around 50 different health organisations and community groups will be on hand to offer free health checks, and important health information for people interested in ways to age well and remain active, physically, mentally and socially.

"Rarely do so many health organisations come together to help people stay active, healthy and engaged as we age," Ms Photinos said.

"Visitors will gain a great deal of information and guidance on preventing falls, managing wounds, infections, continence, dental hygiene, advanced care planning and nutrition, as well as seeing the latest Allied Health aids to support independence."

The Expo will include the opening of a new Wellbeing Garden at the Brighton Health Campus.

The garden will support residents, patients and their carers to more easily access the waterfront and healing nature of the ocean. This has created another added benefit of the community and specifically young families being part of the campus in the café and fenced children's play area, reflecting important intergenerational benefits.

"The garden was funded and supported by many people and organisations across the local community, involving Sandbag Incorporated through the Skilling Queenslanders for Work program," Ms Photinos said.

"The project gave 15 local people some invaluable employable skills while undertaking on-the-job training and experience. It also provides a great area for our patients and residents to enjoy the beautiful foreshore."

Expo exhibitors include Brisbane North PHN, Diabetes Queensland, Queensland Heart Foundation, Carer's Queensland, Hearing Australia, Alzheimer's Australia, BallyCara and Sandgate and Districts Men's Shed.

The Expo will be held on Friday, 24 August from 9.00 am - 1.00 pm, 449 Hornibrook Highway, Brighton Health Campus, Brighton.

YOUR STARS

AQUARIUS. (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19): Would you be happier somewhere else? Maybe. Send out intentions – like messages in a bottle – and you'll hear back from a faraway shore where one washed up.

PISCES. (Feb. 20 - March 20): "Gentrification" is often used pejoratively, but you wouldn't mind an increase in property values. Check out what the surrounding houses are selling for. You may be sitting on a goldmine.

ARIES. (March 21 - April 20): The ranks have closed against you. Either your ideas are too upsetting or too innovative. You need to switch tactics from incite to invite.

TAURUS. (April 21 - May 21): The times have finally caught up to you. For years you've been saying things that sounded "too out there". Now they make sense.

GEMINI. (May 22 - June 21): Accustomed to struggle, you might not realize the establishment has changed its tune. Listen up because this could benefit you.

CANCER. (June 22 - July 23): In the end it looks like you're not going to sign after all. Disappointing, but you'll soon see you were right to pass.

LEO. (July 24 - Aug 23): You don't see how you can get there from here because current circumstances don't allow for it. That's why you need to change your circumstances.

VIRGO. (Aug 24-Sept 23): You're getting signals that your life purpose may lie somewhere else. Don't be afraid to explore avenues that are opening up for you right

LIBRA. (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23): You were afraid to peek behind the curtain, but now that you have you feel emboldened. People won't be able to boss you around like they used to.

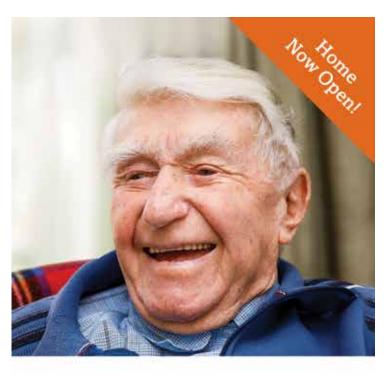

SCORPIO. (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22): Changes in your partner's life will always impact your life, but don't follow along obediently. You need to learn how to negotiate.

SAGITTARIUS. (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21): Reshuffling the pieces is all it takes to get a fresh perspective on a familiar situation.

CAPRICORN. (Dec. 22 - Jan. 22): The old approach just isn't doing it for you. And that's OK. There are times when we all must reinvent and yours is now.
